"I've never been more excited, I can say that," the smiling, blonde-haired coed said after she was crowned.

Nearly 700 students attended the Homecoming rally in the college auditorium at which time the new queen was crowned.

The rally originally was scheduled to be at the football field with a bonfire.

Dr. Frank Sills, ESSC president, welcomed the crowd at the rally and said over 800 votes were cast by the student body to select a queen. Dr. Sills also announced the winners.

"I'd like to thank everyone very much," the newly crowned queen told her fellow students, "especially the sisters of Delta Phi Beta."

Miss McGrorey, who will reign over today's festivities, is a member of the college's Spanish Club and active in intramural sports.

Members of Congress now are talking about adjournment within a week. An indication of the speed with which it is moving was Senate passage of the foreign aid appropriation bill Friday in about 50 minutes.

Speculation has centered on the possibility that Johnson would nominate a senator as chief justice, in the belief that the Senate would not turn down one of its own members.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich, is frequently mentioned, but he told a reporter he has not been sounded out by the White House and knows of no basis for the speculation.

With the Nov. 5 presidential election only a month away, indications are that many Republican senators are not in a mood to confirm anyone as chief justice now.

Hart, the leader of the Democratic liberals in the Senate, also could be expected to run into opposition from his conservative Southern colleagues.

Another complicating factor is that when the Supreme Court opens its fall term on Monday, Warren will be presiding as chief justice.

Johnson also notified the Senate of his withdrawal of his nomination of U.S. Circuit Court Judge Homer Thornberry of Texas to be an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

The organizations vying for the "Most in keeping with the theme" trophy and the "Most Beautiful" trophy include: Alpha Sigma Alpha Sorority; Delta Phi Beta Sorority; Alpha Chi Fraternity; Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity; Sigma Pi Fraternity; Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity; Alpha Omega Service Fraternity; Newman Club and the Health and Physical Education Club.

The Homecoming Weekend sports events begin at 10 a.m. with the Warrior soccer team opposing Trenton. At 2 p.m. the ESSC football team will oppose Kutztown State.

As the gun came out, a dozen police went in and James, a 28-year-old farmer with a history of mental illness, was arrested without incident.

His wife, Joyce, 27, who had stuck by him through the long siege, was brought out unharmed along with the couple's four small children.

It was the end of one of the strangest sieges in British history.

At one time James was surrounded by a force of more than 100 police and troops with two armored cars, yet later his relatives were permitted daily visits to the cottage with supplies of food, water and cigarettes. The cottage had no water pipes. There was a faucet in the yard.

Police Chief Tom Gaylor encouraged the relatives to keep up their visits, and gradually talked them into agreement with his plan: Get inside the house, grab the gun and throw it out.

The scheme paid off. Four of the gunners were captured.

James' kinfolk called Friday at the bleak, graystone cottage. While one talked with James, police rushed up the stairs.

James started, offered no resistance.

The siege began Sept. 18 after James, a former mental patient who apparently fears he may be returned to an institution, fled to his home after being challenged by a policeman for a traffic violation.

Police had tried just about everything except gunplay in their bid to get James out of his barricaded home. They drew some strong criticism.

The only person injured was a young fireman.

Westmoreland enters hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland entered Walter Reed Army Hospital Friday for treatment of a recurring intestinal disorder contracted while he was in South Vietnam, the Army announced.

This was the Army chief of staff's second hospitalization for this same ailment in only a few months. He spent several days at Walter Reed in July.

Nixon tells crowd Wallace could be boost to Humphrey

SPARTANSBURG, S.C. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon told cheering southerners Friday that the only way Hubert Humphrey can win election to the White House is if those unhappy with the administration vote for George Wallace.

Without mentioning the third-party candidate by name, the Republican presidential standard bearer said, "If those who want a change divide themselves it is the only way we have a possibility that the man who has supported" present policies can win the election.

HHH endorses plan for sharing funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey endorsed Friday a task force proposal for federal-state revenue-sharing and called also for consolidation of federal grant programs to make it simpler for cities and states to obtain funds. He said the federal government should funnel automatically to the states between $5 billion and $10 billion annually.

Muriel speaks in Philadelphia for husband

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Muriel Humphrey made a campaign pitch in Democratic Philadelphia Friday for the presidential ambitions of her husband, Hubert.

"I think we'll make it," Muriel said quietly, answering the shouts of several hundred spectators.

There was nothing she didn't do for the hope of a vote next Nov. 5.

She kissed babies, she ate pizza. She toured a housing development in a Negro ghetto. She rode to a shopping center in a Republican suburb.

She shook hundreds of hands among the small crowd of shoppers who stopped, more in curiosity, along the sidewalks. There was no prepared outdoor rally or parade.

She cut ribbons officially opening headquarters for the Hubert Humphrey-Edmund Muskie Democratic ticket.

For two hours during the luncheon period, she had America's First Lady by her side — Mrs. Lyndon Baines Johnson.

Shafer supports Depuy in attack

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer is standing pat with his cabinet member, Warner M. Depuy, who is under attack by his Democratic opponent for state office in the Nov. 5 election.

Former State Sen. Robert P. Casey of Scranton, a Democrat running against Revenue Secretary Depuy for state auditor general, challenged Shafer to fire Depuy, a resident of Milford, for alleged conflict of interest.

Shafer rested his case on an opinion by Atty. Gen. William C. Sennett, also a Shafer appointee, which said there was nothing illegal in Depuy running for the one office while serving in another.

Casey based his position on a new section of the state consti-

ardson; and Mark Clark, retired Army general of World War II and Korea.

Thurmond and Richardson are working in a "Thurmond Speaks" campaign throughout the South in which the senator speaks for Nixon in hopes of countering the popularity of Wallace.

Thursday night, Nixon did mention Wallace by name in a telecast beamed to 12 southern states.

Nixon referred to a statement by Wallace that if a protester were to lie down in front of Wallace's car, it would be the last car he lay in front of. Nixon said anyone who made a statement like that "shouldn't be president."

In his speech, Nixon also hit hard at the law and order issue. "The present administration has failed to deal with domestic violence," he said.

"It has failed in energy, failed in will, failed in purpose."

Greenville's young people turned out in force to see the candidate. High school age youngsters disregarded their personal safety and police requests to move back as they crowded around the open car.

Eban urges U.N. study

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — The United Nations should call a special session just to solve its own problems, Israel's foreign minister suggested Friday.

Abi Eban said the UN's work is only "marginal" because of disharmony among members and its own procedures.

He cited four areas where he said the UN "is not dealing effectively" — Vietnam, Biafra, Czechoslovakia and the Middle East.

"The great drama of human history has fallen into disillusion," he said, commenting on the UN's work.

Democrats join in exception

HARRISBURG (AP) — Democratic legislative leaders joined in a statement Friday taking exception to a Republican "Progress Report."

Rep. Herbert Finegan and his Democratic colleague in the Senate, Ernest P. Kline of Beaver County, called attention to the cover caption of a new campaign booklet which said: "The yeas are 104, and nays 99. The bill passes finally."

Both in discussing revenue sharing and consolidation of grants, Humphrey put in a plug for his proposal for a Marshall Plan for the cities.

In distributing the funds,

Humphrey said: "The distribution formula would reward state tax effort, and urge use of state

personal income taxes."

Area accident claims one life

HONESDALE — Three persons remained hospitalized Friday, one in critical condition, as the result of two separate accidents in Wayne County Thursday which claimed the life of an Ohio woman.

Dead is Mrs. Virginia Norton, 48, of Lyndhurst, Ohio. Wayne County Coroner Robert Jennings ruled death was accidental due to massive internal hemorrhage caused by a ruptured main vessel. An autopsy was performed in Wayne Memorial Hospital.

Peter Hansen, 18, of Honesdale, RD 3, remains in critical condition at Wayne Memorial Hospital from injuries suffered when the car he was driving crashed into a tree Thursday afternoon off Legislative Route 63401 in Dyer Township.

Richard Cook, 18, of Honesdale, RD 3, a passenger in the Hansen car, was treated for injuries at Wayne Memorial and released. Mrs. Norton's husband, Bruce Vaughn, 53, remained in fair condition at Wayne Memorial.

Mrs. Jeanne Thomas, 28, of RD 1 Jermyn, who was injured in the three vehicle collision in which Mrs. Norton died, remained in good condition at St. Joseph's Hospital, Carbondale. Her husband, Gordon, 32, was not admitted into any hospital.

The accident which claimed the life of Mrs. Norton occurred 12:05 p.m. Thursday on Route 6 in Canaan Township, Honesdale. State Police said Mrs. Norton died in Wayne Memorial four hours later.

State Police said a tractor trailer driven by Joseph Chellino, 25, of Carbondale, jackknifed and crossed the highway when he applied the brakes after an unidentified car in front of him slowed down. Two cars, one driven by Norton and the second by Thomas each crashed into the jackknifed vehicle which was in their lane of traffic, according to State Police.

Up Milford Way

By Norman B. Lehde

By NORMAN B. LEHDE
MILFORD — The Republicans of Pike County have held their big dinner meeting and rally and the Democrats have opened their headquarters on Broad Street to the beat of a youthful rock and roll band. It is time to take a look at the local political scene as the final weeks arrive before election.

With the GOP holding a registration edge of 2,228 voters, it would appear, on the surface, that the only news that could come out of the Nov. 5 election in Pike County is just how large the Republican majority would be. Add to the registration story, the fact that a local man, County Commissioner Warner M. Deputy, of Milford, is a candidate for the office of Auditor General on the state ticket and it would seem that the GOP vote would easily soar to levels never before reached in this happy hunting ground of the Republican party.

This may well be the case, but in this Presidential year there are other factors that may add dimensions to the campaign that could change the figures and possibly detract from the one sidedness of winning Republican margins in the county.

Wallace enigma
The presidential candidacy of George Wallace is a growing enigma. The county has few John Birch Society members and no known Klansmen, but there are many who forecast that Wallace will do well in Pike in this unique election year.

These prognosticators claim there are enough persons who are alienated, angry or afraid, for a variety of reasons, to give the Alabama man a sizable vote. There are others who consider the Wallace support in 1925 class reminiscences at reunion

NEWFOUNDLAND — The Class of 1925 met in its 44th reunion dinner on Sunday at the Lancaster, South Sterling, and spent the afternoon in a social gathering at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Carroll "Tat" Krautter, Newfoundland, where the talk turned to "remember when."

The group recalled the time the boys went to a basketball game in a horse-drawn wagon driven by Myron Ziegler, and another night when the car they were riding in turned around twice on the slippery roads.

Present were the Rev. and Mrs. Stanley Woltjen, of Bethlehem; Mr. and Mrs. Herman Gilpin, Easton; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Simons; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Grimm (Georgianna Phillips); Mary Brundage Knoll; Elva Phillips; Ella Gilpin; Helen Cron Stevenson; Hannah Schellert; Rebecca Adams Seese; and a guest, Frances Lamb Ives.

Ed Bird, who was president of the graduating class back in 1925, the first class to hold commencement exercises in the old Haubert Theatre in Newfoundland, presided at the reunion.

Bomb scare reported at DelVal

MILFORD — A bomb scare at Delaware Valley High School was investigated by Milford State Police Thursday afternoon with negative findings but as a result of a subsequent bomb scare call two juveniles were apprehended.

According to police a bomb scare was called at 2:30 p.m. at the school, which was immediately evacuated. A search was made by members of Westfall Township police and fire departments assisting Milford State Police.

Police said during the evacuation, apparently two of the pupils left to make another call. The Middletown operator received the call which reportedly said a bomb had been placed in the telephone company building. The call was traced and the youths aged 12, were apprehended and handed to juvenile authorities.

State Police remind citizens that this type of offense is serious and dangerous which warrants a penalty of $1,000 fine and/or one year imprisonment.

Assembly contest

A contest of special local interest is the battle for the office of Representative in the General Assembly from the 139th District which embraces Pike and Wayne counties and part of Monroe. Here the veteran campaigner, J. Russell Eshback, who has a long record of success at the polls, is opposed by a young attorney, Peter O'Brien.

At first glance, this would appear to be about the biggest no-contest since Johnny Paycheck fought Joe Louis, with Eshback not even needing to make a pretense at campaigning. However, O'Brien has impressed many people and in a year when the young have a special appeal and growing dissatisfaction with those in office appears to be almost a voter phobia, it could be that the Mifflin attorney will draw far more than token support.

As noted, the candidacy of Warner Deputy of Milford can be expected to receive overwhelming support in his home county. Even though he opposes the popular "Bob" Casey of Scranton, it is expected that he will receive the vote of many Democrats who have been long time friends and associates. However, even here there is a shadow and one of unknown density. The Delaware Valley School Board is currently engaged in court action against the County Commissioners in regard to the county's compliance with the Act of 1941 in regard to property assessment.

This is an issue that can very quickly evoke rage and screams from both those who support the policy and the commissioners and thus favoring the demands of the school district; between those who feel that current assessment policies in the county are fair and those who feel they leave much to be desired. If Warner, as a member of the Board of County Commissioners, is caught in this crossfire, it might cut into his vote total in the county.

Leftist action

Since leftist action in the county is around the zero mark, it is doubtful that the Socialist-Labor candidate, or the Military Workers candidate, will draw any support in the county. Nor is Dick Gregory's Peace and Freedom Party likely to pull many votes although the number of people who look with disfavor on the Vietnam conflict may be sizable.

The Delaware Valley School Board is currently engaged in court action against the County Commissioners in regard to the county's compliance with the Act of 1941 in regard to property assessment.

This is an issue that can very quickly evoke rage and screams from both those who support the policy and the commissioners and thus favoring the demands of the school district; between those who feel that current assessment policies in the county are fair and those who feel they leave much to be desired. If Warner, as a member of the Board of County Commissioners, is caught in this crossfire, it might cut into his vote total in the county.

Leftist action

Since leftist action in the county is around the zero mark, it is doubtful that the Socialist-Labor candidate, or the Military Workers candidate, will draw any support in the county. Nor is Dick Gregory's Peace and Freedom Party likely to pull many votes although the number of people who look with disfavor on the Vietnam conflict may be sizable.

As noted, the candidacy of Warner Deputy of Milford can be expected to receive overwhelming support in his home county. Even though he opposes the popular "Bob" Casey of Scranton, it is expected that he will receive the vote of many Democrats who have been long time friends and associates. However, even here there is a shadow and one of unknown density. ## Olympic games in danger

With each passing day it appears that only a miracle can make possible the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico.

This year's international athletic competition has been marked by trouble since Mexico City was selected as the location.

Immediately most of the Negro athletes of the United States said they would boycott the games and leave Uncle Sam far below expected strength.

When this move began to run low on appeal, student riots broke out on a daily and nightly schedule in the capital of Mexico. The slumbering Mexicans who for years have had little desire to upset anyone, just happened to select this time to stage riots and dispute authority of police and the army.

The Olympic games, marked by the burning torch, friendly relations and survival only of the athletic fittest, suddenly has found itself a near-victim of the violence that has swept the world.

It may fall victim to the same violence that occurs only at certain places and certain times — when certain groups find it advantageous to their cause.

Anti-American movers who tried to turn the Negro athlete against his nation failed. Now, these groups have turned back to the tried and trusted manner to fight authority or oppose tradition — violence.

If violence in the streets of Mexico City continues, nations will undoubtedly reduce the number of athletes they send to the games and maybe even ban all athletes from the games. Spectators will certainly remain at home by the thousands.

Violence and the Olympics certainly don't go together — except for those who would like to mix the two.

Wallace real threat

George Wallace, former governor of Alabama, may someday be responsible for welding the Republican and Democratic parties into one organization.

Right now the Third Party candidate has Richard Nixon, the GOP standard bearer, and Vice President Hubert Humphrey, the Democratic hopeful in the current presidential campaign, looking over their shoulders much like an alcoholic on a swinging bridge.

In fact, in recent weeks both Nixon and Humphrey have forgotten their own heated battle to a great extent to level combined attacks at Wallace.

Wallace, who was thought to be only a nuisance candidate when the campaigning began, has now thrown a real scare into both Nixon and HHH.

Recent surveys continue to show Wallace eating into votes that were normally earmarked for Nixon or HHH. They show him gaining strength in the north as well as the south.

Wallace was supposedly destined to hurt Nixon most in the south. But, the former Alabama governor has grown rapidly in political stature and is now a threat to both major candidates in all sections of the United States.

We don't agree with Wallace's viewpoints, the manner in which he delivers his points and we agree less for what he stands. Nevertheless, he must be accepted as a serious candidate.

Now Wallace has selected Gen. Curtis LeMay as his vice presidential partner and further widened the breach between himself and the two major parties. He undoubtedly has gained votes by his latest move and lost others.

We are as opposed to a Wallace-LeMay ticket as we were to Wallace when he was flying solo.

Light side

With Gene Brown

The woman lecturer was going strong. "For centuries women have been misjudged and mistreated," she yelled. "They have suffered in a thousand ways. Is there any way that women have not suffered?"

As she paused to let that question sink in, it was answered by a voice down front. "Yes, there's one way," the masculine voice said. "They have never suffered in silence."

Dave Goldstein tells of the Little Green Man who was standing in a village square.

"Are you from Mars?" asked a native.

"Yes," said the Little Green Man.

"Are you all green like that?"

"Yes."

"You all got antennas sticking out of your ears like that?"

"Yes."

"You all got round black caps in the middle of your head like that?" asked the native.

"Only the orthodox," was the reply.

The world owes us nothing — it was here first!

A wise old judge was once asked to settle a dispute between two brothers about the fair division of a large estate left them by their father.

"Let one brother divide the estate," he ruled. "and let the other brother have first choice."

Campaign needs debate

WITH RICHARD NIXON — There is need and there is a way to get some focus and spice into this murky presidential campaign.

Despite apparent roadblocks, a series of clarifying TV debates between Richard Nixon and Hubert Humphrey is obtainable.

There are strong reasons why the debates should take place. They would add substance to a campaign sadly short of it. They would help generate public interest in voting. The Harris Survey shows 57 per cent of the voters indifferent to all three major candidates.

They would provide another way to judge the candidates by allowing the nation to see how they handle the same issues and the same questions at the same time.

A political campaign ought to belong to the voters, not to the candidates, and the public desire to have television debates ought to be overriding because they would be overridingly valuable to them.

At the moment the impasse seems to be total.

Nixon says he won't debate Humphrey if he has to debate George Wallace.

The House bill to free the networks from having to give equal time to a throng of minor candidates specifically names Humphrey, Nixon and Wallace as the ones for whom the debates would be made possible.

Hence the present deadlock with the prospect of anything like the Nixon-Kennedy debates of 1960 moving further and further out of reach.

Nixon rejects any debate except with Humphrey alone. Wallace isn't going to stand by and see himself excluded if he can help it. And it looks as though the networks couldn't legally provide free time to two of the leading candidates without providing it for all three.

Does this mean that everything is in such a snarl that there is no solution at all?

I think there is a solution and it could be worked out this way:

1 — The networks could offer to sell equal time for debate to all candidates and all parties at a reduced rate, perhaps 50 per cent. The reduction would be as a public service.

2 — Any party and any candidate, including Wallace, could buy that time — but no other candidate would be required by law or for any other reason to accept an invitation by Wallace to debate.

3 — Nixon and Humphrey could accept each other's invitation to one or more TV debates. The Republican and Democratic national committees could pay for the time, and if the networks would reduce the charge — which seems to me they should as a contribution to their year-around free use of the public airwaves — it would not be burdensome.

Two rivals

This would enable Nixon to debate only Humphrey as he has said he would. Humphrey is eager to do so. There is no provision in the law to preclude it. It would be fair to Wallace because it would be equally open to him to buy similar time at reduced rate and invite any other candidate to debate or use the time all for himself.

What are we waiting for?

Time is rapidly slipping away and the campaign urgently needs more substance, better focus and zest if half the nation isn't going to stay home out of indifference.

The 1960 debates proved a powerful means of vitalizing the democratic process. They greatly heightened public interest in the Nixon-Kennedy campaign and increased the percentage of voters who went to the polls.

That's what we need right now — substance, zest and focus.

Address helps

WASHINGTON — Back before things got so serious, several senators were having a lively time on the floor discussing Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas' rather ostentatious listing of the White House as his business address in "Who's Who."

Sen. Frank Lausche (D., Ohio) was marveling at Justice Fortas' nerve when Sen. Robert P. Griffin (R., Mich.) asked Lausche if he were aware that "Who's Who" biographies fill out their own questionnaires and get an advance proof back for checking before it is printed. Lausche said he knew that; he's been filling out "Who's Who" forms for 25 years, but doesn't think he ever got in the book.

Griffin answered: "The senator should try listing his business address as the White House. I'll bet you'd make it then."

One congressman remains unshaken by the drastic cut in foreign aid funds. "After all, he quips, "we don't have as many foreign friends as we once did."

In 1947, when a loaf of bread cost 12.5 cents, the wheat farmer got 2.9 cents of it. Today, bread costs 22.2 cents, but the farmer's share is only 2.6 cents. Rep. Richard H. Poff (R., Va.) said the farmer is the real victim of the "high-price spread."

Another Virginian with a mean remark is Rep. William L. Scott (R.). He said that so long as we have Attorney General Ramsey Clark as the nation's chief law enforcement officer we may as well have Dr. Spock as Secretary of Defense.

At the United States Chamber of Commerce the other day there was this vignette: Two workmen came struggling in with a large, old desk which had just been revarnished and fitted with new handles. They went all over the building asking for Mr. Webster's office, explaining that they had his desk. No Webster could be found, but finally someone looked at the desk and reading a brass plate on it discovered that the workmen were trying to return the chamber's prize museum piece — a desk once owned by Daniel Webster.

Hold onto your hats, here's an amazing revelation from the Health, Education and Welfare Department: At a cost of only $90,000 for the study, HEW has learned that "Low-income and undereducated pregnant American women receive far less medical care and dental care than those with college training and an annual family income in excess of $10,000."

People who know that Richard Nixon's campaign headquarters are located in the old, nonoperating Willard Hotel here must be confused by posters left in the windows of one floor by a previous tenant: "International Congress on Alcoholism."

Maybe what this country needs is a president as frugal as Zachary Taylor, the 12th president, who was nominated by the Whig convention in Philadelphia in 1848. As was the custom then, Taylor did not attend the convention.

Unfortunately, according to the Encyclopedia Americana, notice of his nomination was mailed to him in an envelope with postage due. Taylor refused to accept it. Word finally reached him about a month later and only then did he hit the campaign trail. His tight-fistedness must have appealed to the public.

The Government Printing Office offers, for five cents, a rather prosaic booklet about the Employee Health Maintenance Examination under the folksy title, "Chicken Soup, the EHME and You."

A trade publication called Western Manufacturing mentions no industrial robot which can do everything from picking up boxes and loading die machines to calculating and mixing a martini. (Swell, but can it hold a secretary on its lap?)

Letters to the Editor

Requests sports publicity

Editor, The Record:

East Stroudsburg State College is a fine educational institution. It is particularly well known for its exceptional Department of Physical Education which provides fine training for future teachers and coaches.

Most colleges, including ESSC, have a Public Relations Department whose objective it is to "put the college on the map" — spread its good name, attract high caliber students, etc.

It is therefore logical that public relations at the college with such heavy emphasis on physical education would publicize its fine athletic teams. By reason of its magnificent victory over West Chester this past weekend, the ESSC football team may possibly become the Pennsylvania State College Conference Champion this year. In defeating West Chester, it defeated the nation's sixth ranked small college football team.

If the local college has no provision for publicizing this matter, then it is not fulfilling its function of good public relations. If it is not the job of the public relations department at ESSC to publicize sports to the news media, hometown newspapers, etc., then someone has not analyzed properly how to get the most

President of what?

Editor, The Record:

George Wallace has as much right to run for President as Stokley Carmichael or H. Rap Brown.

But it's not clear that he wants to be president — President of the United States of America, that is.

He sounds like he wants to be president of the Old Confederacy, or the New, if there be one; while he drapes himself in the

Opposes arrow hunting

Editor, The Record:

Bow and arrow hunting of deer is very cruel.

Regardless of how good a man, boy or woman thinks they are, nobody can believe it isn't cruel to wound an animal that runs the wilds.

How many can kill a deer in its tracks — about one out of 20?

Where does the arrow go that misses the fatal mark, I will tell you — it goes into deer flesh and inflicts wounds.

CARL W. BECK

Stroudsburg, R. D. 1

Hunters today are too lazy to track the crippled deer because this is sport. The Indian hunted deer for food for their families to eat and not for sport.

When Indians crippled deer they would follow the animal until they were able to kill it and put it out of its misery.

The State Game Commission doesn't care about the animal. All it cares for is the fee for licenses.

I realize these boys do not need me, but I need them. I have not been able to do very much other than write to the boys.

About 50 other persons write to servicemen. I do supply addresses. Now they are expecting new addresses, as I am.

New York's Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Bergdorf-Goodman's owner, Andrew Goodman, turned down a $55,000,000 offer . . . Christmas is almost three months away and Georg Jensen's on 5th Ave. has snow-laden Yule-tree-filled windows . . . And B. Streisand sang "Silent Night" in her September television special . . . Joey Bishop's right hand, Regis Philbin, and friend have a flash . . . Cary Grant had his name removed from the letterheads of a new "private" Manhattan club.

Democratic congressman John Murphy (official Parliamentarian at the Democratic Convention) told us Sen. Eugene McCarthy got sore at everyone after the nomination because someone didn't deliver a note to the podium asking to let him then make a brief speech backing BHH . . . Sen. Murphy (of Staten Island-Brooklyn) said McCarthy considered it an "intentional snub"; asked why McCarthy couldn't be cajoled later, Sen. Murphy replied, "Pique!"

The slipshod, bland "Noel Coward's Polato" bore the name, and its contents certainly were culled from Coward's lifetime of stage triumphs, but the production at the Ethel Barrymore Theatre and Coward himself were almost a contrast in terms . . . Attempts to give the splendid Coward music a rock beat didn't work, removing the stylish, original polish and wit without adding a comparably potent modern mood or performance.

Jack Lemmon admitted his "piece" of "The Odd Couple" is running $100,000 a week . . . Every week . . . After she finishes "Me, Natalie," Patty Duke will get a divorce and settle in Hollywood.

After all his fights with news' photos, Frank Sinatra has taken up photography . . . "Hot Millions" producer Mildred Freed Alberg's reply to a question about the "strangeness" of a "woman producer" . . . "Women have been producing for centuries," Mildred countered.

Another good New York hotdogger: The Berliner Bar on E. 66th St. . . Again, let's urge you: "The Man in the Glass Booth" is the finest, most powerful, most moving drama on Broadway in seasons; and Donald Pleasence is giving the most absorbing, most exciting performance we've seen since Olivier in "Oedipus" more than 20 years ago.

New bumper stickers around Manhattan: "Remember the Pueblo!" . . . The Nevele Hotel in the nearby Catskills is owned by eleven members of the Slutsky family; they also own Nevele Pride, a trotter knocking off harness sprints like crazy — 39 of 43 races . . . He's won so many stakes in two years, every single member of the Slutsky ownership has been able to be photographed with the horse in the winner's circle.

George Raft had the backing for a plush Eastside interiory with a "rope" policy, like the old Stork Club . . . Of all New York cafes, the Stork is most missed . . . New York cabdriver named Bill Tobin said he was a National League umpire at the same time as the late "Dolly" Stark.

September was so mild and summary, hat check concessions almost went out of their wallets.

Late Hedda Hopper's son Bill (of the television dramas) is ill . . . Joel Grey must feel like the "Picture of Dorian Grey" . . . not only is the gal playing his mother in "George M!" younger than Joel — Jerry Dodge, playing his father, is only six years older . . . Gilbert Bécaud shouldn't get a parking ticket in Paris — he's writing songs with Louis Amade, Paris police continue . . . Bécaud opens on Broadway next week (at the Cort) in a one-man show.

Jane Morgan borrowed sex star Erskine Hawkins from his "Lifetime" post at the Concord (as house jazz maestro) for dates in Los Angeles and Chicago . . . In the "Duffy" movie, Susannah York in one scene wears almost nothing atoll — just a Polynesian bikini.

Two years ago 70 banks issued credit cards; now — more than 1,000 . . . Assassinations aside, insurance statisticians say, life insurance premiums are down . . .

Our son made good his threat and I am brokenhearted. Please keep urging mothers not to ignore their children when they ask for psychiatric help. Sometimes a physical checkup is not enough.

Dear Ann Landers: May I say a word to the mother of the boy who wrote to say he felt the need for psychiatric help but his mother insisted it was "just a stage" he was going through and to forget it.

That boy's letter could have been written word for word by our own son — same age and even the same name. The lad's fear that he would commit suicide was expressed exactly as our son expressed it. I also told him it was "just a stage" and that he would outgrow it.

Our son made good his threat and I am brokenhearted. Please keep urging mothers not to ignore their children when they ask for psychiatric help. Sometimes a physical checkup is not enough.

Dear Can't: You did what you thought was best at the time. None of us can look into the future and see what lies there. Thank you for writing. Perhaps your letter will help other children.

Rev. Wesley K. Meixell, pastor of the Mt. Pocono Methodist Church, holds picture of his late father, also a Methodist minister, as he discusses changes in churches.

Rebellion, ecumenism rolls cited

By PETE GRADY

Pocono Record Reporter
MOUNT POCONO — Rev. Wesley K. Meixell, pastor of the Mount Pocono Methodist Church, will never forget when he preached a sermon in St. Mary's of the Mount Roman Catholic Church, Mount Pocono, in 1966.

"My father could never have done that, not in his day," said Rev. Meixell who replaced Rev. James Mori in 1961.

His father, Rev. De Ray C. Meixell, also a Methodist minister, took over what was then, in 1921, the Tannersville Circuit.

The Tannersville Circuit consisted of five churches: Tannersville, Reeders, McMichaels, Effort and Wesley Chapel in Bartonsville.

"My father went from charge to charge in a Model-T Ford," Rev. Meixell said. "One Sunday he would visit three charges, the next Sunday, the other two."

The desk in Rev. Meixell's study in the Mount Pocono church was given to him by his church members in memory of his father.

"He was gifted with a 'sanctified imagination,'" Rev. Meixell said in recalling his father. "I can still remember his series of sermons on David, on the little boy with the loaves and fish, and his pulpit dramas on Pilate and the imkeeper."

Rev. Meixell's father died in 1967. Shortly before his death he quoted to his son II Timothy 1:12: "I know whom I have believed and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day."

Rev. Meixell cited the tremendous changes in the churches since he has come to Mount Pocono: The ecumenical spirit of Catholicism and Protestantism, the spirit of Christian cooperation and the revolutionary change within religion itself.

"At the 1966 Advent service at St. Mary's of the Mount," Rev. Meixell said, "I delivered the sermon for Christian unity and peace. I believe it was the first time a Protestant spoke from the pulpit of St. Mary's of the Mount."

"The church was packed. Members of Trinity Episcopal Church and the Lutheran Church of our Savior, both in Mt. Pocono, and St. Joan of Arc, Pocono Summit, were in the congregation."

"After the service, we walked from the church to the community Christmas tree to light the lights. I was told people had tears in their eyes."

Speaking frankly, Rev. Meixell admitted that church attendance is falling off. He seems to feel that middle-aged and younger generations are indifferent. "Maybe people don't like to hear today's relevance of faith to life," he said.

Citing the assassinations of Martin Luther King, John and Robert Kennedy, Rev. Meixell said that perhaps people are turning inwardly into themselves out of fear rather than discussing today's problems in socially active groups.

A SOURCE OF POWER AND INSPIRATION

The Holy Bible is a rule and guide of faith; a rule book for right living. It is a comfort in times of adversity and tragedy. It is a source of power and inspiration. Within its many books may be found solutions for many of the things in life that perplex and confound us. In short it is a text book for spiritual growth.

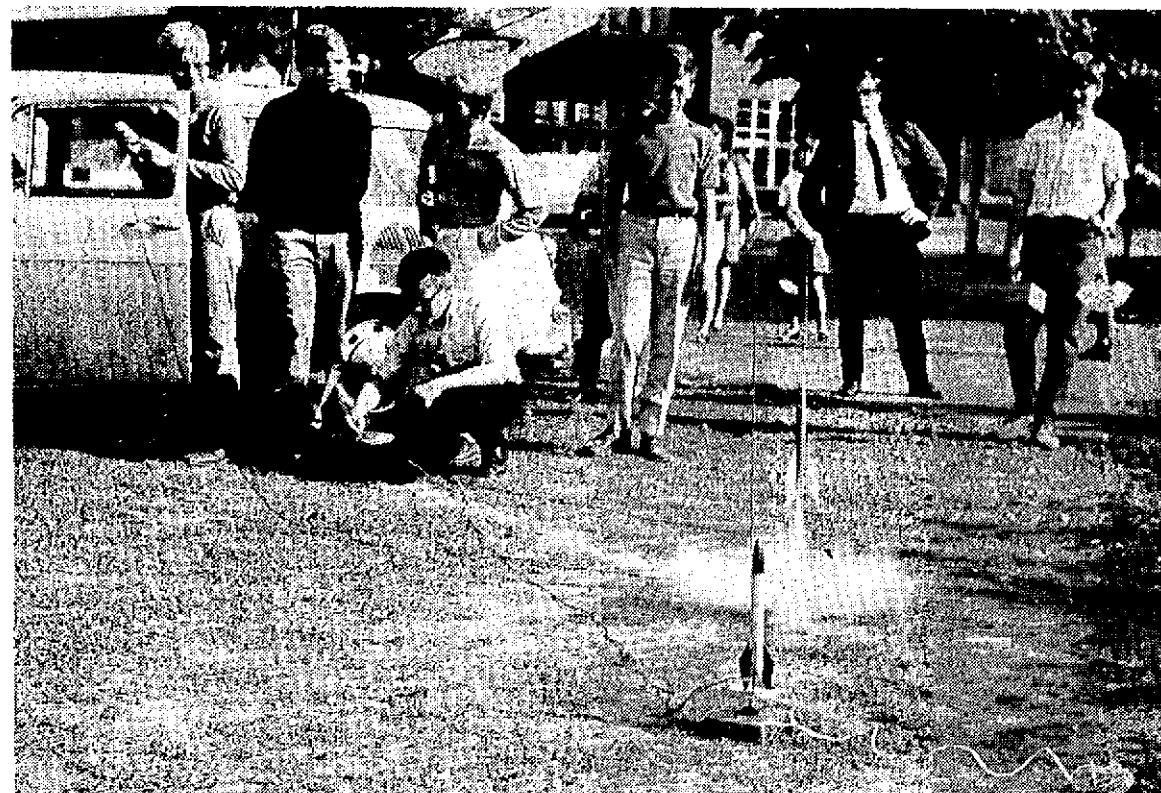

However, the Bible is not an easy book to read. To become a source of power and aid it cannot be "Skimmed" over as one often reads a work of fiction. It requires study!

An invaluable aid in getting the most out of your Holy Bible is attendance at church. Moreover, the Bible serves the same purpose to the church goer as a text book serves the student in class. It does more, much more, but this is one of its many uses.

Make use of your Bible and your church. Both will serve you as great bulwarks throughout life.

Chest hits $57,801 in drive

STROUDSBURG — Ten Monroe County industries hit the Community Chest's Honor Roll Thursday and shot the 1968 campaign to $57,801.

The new total pushed the Community Chest's drive for 11 agencies $8,500 ahead of last year's figures at the same time.

Meeting at the Penn Stroud Hotel, Jesse R. S. Flory, co-chairman of the Industrial Division, announced that the Honor Roll is made up of only contributions of employees of firms who have been participating in the Chest's "One Man for One Industry" campaign.

Flory said that the Industrial Division's total had reached $16,584. Other divisions totaled $41,217.

"Many other plants and companies are completing the One For One program," Flory said. "We expect final figures at the October 10-17 meetings at the Penn Stroud Hotel."

Firms which made the Honor Roll ('67 figures in parenthesis) were: R.C. Cramer Lumber ($228) — $265; Drackett Inc. ($28) — $68; Grief Bros. (—) — $519; Lisa Bee ($19) — $179; Kulp Foundry ($503) — $1,230; Ronson Corp. of Penna. ($184) — $1,451; Stroudsburg Engine Works ($137) — $100; Trumatic Machine and Tool ($258) — $552; and Hughes Printing ($345) — $356.

Flory said, "This report is most optimistic. It shows that labor is very much concerned about the Community Chest."

He noted, "the 1967 contributions from the employees of the same firms totaled $2,242, while this year's drive in the same plants totalled $5,365."

He emphasized, "We have many reports out yet. But all barometers point to a very successful campaign in the Industrial Division."

E.S. plans centennial celebration

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg will hold a centennial celebration in 1970, it was decided Thursday night during a meeting of community residents in the Municipal Building.

The gathering of 25 men and women voted unanimously to celebrate the borough's 100th anniversary in 1970, probably in June and possibly in conjunction with the Four County Firemen's Assn.

The motion to stage the celebration was made by Donald Gage, assistant borough manager, and seconded by Pearly Hunt, a member of the borough council.

Hunt also moved that a non-profit organization be formed to direct the celebration. Robert Lesome, borough fire chief seconded this motion.

Robert Kline, of the John B. Rogers Co. of Fostoria, Ohio, was present to outline celebration plans and to map a possible program. This is the same company that directed the Stroudsburg celebration in 1965.

Jack Wallie, another member of council, was named celebration chairman and directed Thursday night's meeting. Mayor Thomas L. Kistler also spoke briefly to the gathering.

Another meeting to further plan for the celebration will be held in the Municipal Building on Monday, Oct. 28, at 7:30 p.m.

Czechs Prohibit Press Criticism of Soviet Forces

From The Tribune's Wire Services

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia — Rigid censorship was imposed on Czechoslovakia's newspapers and broadcasters Wednesday, banning any news reports that "could be considered as criticism" by the Soviet-led occupation forces.

The rules prohibited use of the terms "occupants" and "occupation"; reprinting of critical commentaries from abroad; "popularizing" the idea of neutrality, and playing up the activities of the United Nations Security Council.

Only the official viewpoint of the Czechoslovak government may be printed or broadcast.

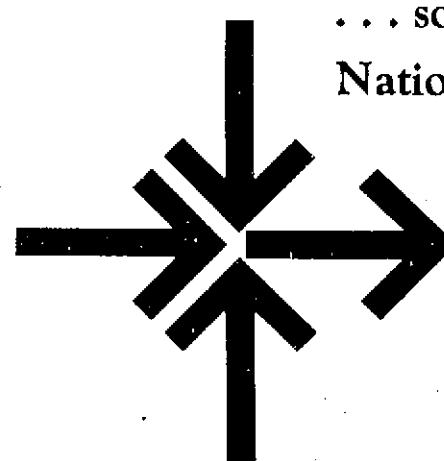

Soviet troops left the Czechoslovak television building and some additional newspapers yesterday. On a television newscast, Communist party leader Alexander Dubcek was shown entering his office in the Central Committee building.

It could belong to Batman

Batman's car? Well, only the man who built it can answer that. Adolph Heuer of Columbia R.D. 1, N.J., built the vehicle in a barn. It took two winters to complete the project. The car is built on a Ford chassis of masonite and wood. It measures 20 feet long, weighs 3,000 pounds and has

Republicans reduce Democratic edge in Monroe County voter registration

STROUDSBURG — According to figures compiled by the Monroe County Election Bureau as of October 1, Republican registration continues to gain on the total Democratic registration.

The Democratic edge in the county is down to its lowest level in more than 30 years. At the end of the March registration period of this year, Democrats led Republicans by 1,584. That lead is now down to 1,063.

Since the registration period ending on March 26, nearly 1,000 countians have registered with the Republican party, as opposed to slightly less than 500 Democrats.

Of the 21,163 persons eligible to vote next month, 10,961 are Democrats and 9,318 are Republican.

Three-way split

The 384 remaining voters are split into 214 Independents, 157 non-partisans and 13 Constitutionalists.

Figures for the 1968 registration period ending in September showed 990 Republicans, 526 Democrats, 75 Independents, 22 non-partisans and four Constitutionalists.

In 1960, for the first time in the county's history, the Republican Party attained a majority of registrants. In that year, 1,041 Republicans registered as opposed to 1,032 Democrats.

Final figures show Republicans out-numbering Democrats in 10 of the county's 36 voting districts.

The 10 districts are in Stroudsburg's Second and Fifth Wards, East Stroudsburg's First Ward, Jackson, Paradise, Pocono, Eastern Middle, Southern, Eastern Tobyhanna and Western Tobyhanna townships.

The 1,617 registration total for 1968 is 155 registrants short of the highest registration in the county's history. The record was set in 1950 when the total was 2,132. In 1964 the total registration was 1,419.

The mammoth Tocks Island project and its related Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area have soared from an estimated $200 million to a figure near $350 million. The current timetable calls for a 1978 completion.

Schweiker said that the project should be accelerated after the present fiscal crisis.

Funds have been slashed for both the Tocks Island and D W G N R A during the government's current austerity program. An investigation of the rising costs for the project was made last year.

Schweiker also said he favors cutbacks in the space race, foreign aid and by bringing troops home from Europe.

He said he did not believe it is important to beat the Russians to the moon, except as military implications are involved.

Sackley denies requesting police morale investigation

By BOB GROFF
Pocono Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — Stephen Sackley, Stroudsburg Borough Council member, Friday denied statements attributed to him saying he was calling for an investigation into the morale of the Stroudsburg Police Department.

Sackley corrected the statements by saying that he is in no position to call for an investigation as he is only a member of the Police Committee, not the chairman.

Sackley did say on Friday that an investigation "should" be conducted concerning the resignation of two female meter attendants. He also said that as far as he was concerned, an overall investigation into the police department would be in the best interest of the people.

Sackley's concern over the police department was evident Wednesday night when he clashed with Mayor Joseph H. Small during a borough council meeting.

Test request

Small had asked the council's permission to advertise for tests to be given so that more patrolmen might be hired. The request prompted Sackley to ask what had happened to the two female meter attendants who had resigned.

Sackley accused Small and the police department of putting pressure on the two women to quit. Small replied that he would be more than happy to show council and Sackley the two letters of resignation which gave no indication of any pressure which Sackley indicated. Sackley made no comment to Small's reply.

Sackley then suggested the hiring of two more meter attendants, saying it would increase revenue for the borough.

Revenues up

Small immediately informed Sackley that revenues are up $5,000 over last year, with only one male attendant and one female attendant employed.

Howard (Bud) Atemus, council member and chairman of the Police Committee, took no part in the exchange between Sackley and Small on Wednesday night and was unavailable for any comment on Friday about the so-called problems of the police department.

Other council members have expressed surprise that Atemus, as Police Committee chairman, has failed to voice any comments publicly about the changes and concern of Sackley.

Small, when contacted Friday, said, "I have never seen morale better." Small also commented that he has seen no evidence of the department losing men because they were quitting their jobs due to unhappiness with conditions on the force.

Sackley earlier had charged that the police force was losing men rapidly because they were unhappy with working conditions.

Stroudsburg Police Chief John Tretheway Friday said that he would reserve comment until a later date.

Warriors risk Eastern lead against youthful Kutztown

By TED WISMER

Record Sports Editor

EAST STROUDSBURG — There are some members of the East Stroudsburg State football team that are taking Kutztown State lightly.

As a result head coach Charlie Rees has made some changes in the starting lineup for this afternoon's Pennsylvania State College Conference clash at College Field. Kickoff is set for 2 p.m.

This is the one problem that will plague the Warrior coaching staff the remainder of season as ESSC tries to hold onto the top spot in the Eastern Conference.

Offensively Rees will go with Ed Csenecits and Bill Horvath at the terminals; Henry Kearns and Merv Witmer at tackles; Joe Kelly and Tom Kizis at guards and Nevin Posey, the most improved linemen, at center.

Billy Dukett, the total offensive leader in the PSCC, will direct the wide-open attack with John Pitzer at fullback and Jim Waite and Bill Hurst at the halfback.

The defensive unit, which has given up yardage between the 20s but then stiffens, remains in tact. Bobby Ott, Bob Malehorn, Carl Wolfe, Ed Hawrylo and Bill Forte make up the five-man pass rush.

Gary Schoenberger, Tom Sykes and Dick Siwak make up one of the best linebacking crews in the conference with Bob Dunan, Tom Mullane and Charlie Corrado in the secondary.

Bears hurting

Kutztown, which over the years has been a stumbling block for the Warriors, enters the game with several starters as question marks.

Senior halfback Bill Myers suffered a broken hand in the 7-7 tie with Millersville last week and may be sidelined for the season.

Sophomore standout Phil Anthony (6-0, 230) came out of last week's game with a sprained ankle and has been held out of contact drills this week. Rick Atkinson, a 160-pound sophomore will replace Myers while Tom Flueh, another sophomore, is being groomed to replace Anthony.

Despite their 0-1 record the Bears' 'Youth Corps' are way ahead of last year's KSC squad. Last year the Bears lost to Central Connecticut, 33-0 and to Millersville, 26-6. This year Kutztown lost its opener, 13-0 and tied Millersville last week.

Head coach Bob Kinderman, who was an assistant to Rees at Chambersburg High, starts as many as 15 sophomores and several of them are in the as yet 'untested secondary'.

On offense the Bears will try and stop the best offense in the PSCC has George Barton (200) and Harry Zander (200) at ends and Jim Gaston (265) and Ron Praz (220) at tackles.

The linebackers and deep backs are Jerry Serfass (175), Anthony Tagliaferri (170), Ron Reed (175), John Wabby (185), Mike Stranko (175), Herb Garrett (200) and Jim Walker (165).

Townsend leads Brewer by shot after three rounds of Alcan

SOUTHPORT, England (UPI) — England's Peter Townsend fired a five-under-par 69 Friday to take the third round lead of the Alcan Golfer of the Year championship—one stroke ahead of defending champion Guy Brewer, who also had a 69.

Townsend, 24-year-old British PGA champ, stood eight-under-par at 213 after 54 holes, while Brewer had 214. Another stroke, back at 215 was pudgy Bob Murphy, who stumbled home with a 74 after being tied for the lead going into the third round.

Bert Yancey shot an eagle and four birdies on the last six holes for a 68 to set a course record on the 7,140-yard, par 74 layout, which left him at 220, still seven strokes off the pace. Also at 220 were Gardner Dickinson, Neil Coles of England and South African Bobby Cole, who was tied with Murphy for the second round lead, but ballooned to a 79 Friday.

U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino shot a 77 to stand at 221 and Billy Casper was in with a 72 for 223.

Townsend, who recently returned from an unsuccessful crack at the U.S. circuit, admitted to "a terrible feeling of nervousness coming home."

"I knew I was going for a good round and possibly for the lead—and the crowd was rooting for me," he said, adding he "kept his cool" and never faltered.

He turned in two-under-par 34, deuced the short 12th with a 12-footer, pitched to four feet for a birdie four at the 510-yard 17th and wedged to three feet for a birdie four at the 513-yard 18th.

Brewer birdied the sixth by wedging to seven feet and sinking the putt for a four to turn in 35 and he canned a 25-footer for a birdie three at the 11th. He grabbed an eagle three on the 17th with a driver and four wood to eight feet and four wood to 25 feet. His attempt at another eagle rolled slowly past the lip.

"I missed a few putts, but I made a good strong finish, so I'm happy enough," Brewer said.

Murphy had no luck at all on the greens and lipped the holes at the first, third, fifth, seventh, 12th and 16th.

The paunchy Irishman from Florida opened with a birdie at the first hole but had to settle for par until the 11th when he drove into the left rough and then hit out to the right rough for a bogey five. He also got a bogey five at the 16th when he three-putted and it took a massive 29-foot putt—"The only one I got all day"—to take him a birdie at the 17th.

Willie Townes and Jethro Pugh return to the Dallas defensive line following a week's absence while Mike Lucci is expected to rejoin Detroit.

Sonny Jurgensen will start for Washington against Philadelphia despite a shoulder bruise while Los Angeles has lost running back Les Josephson for the rest of the season with a torn Achilles tendon and may be without defensive end Lamar Lundy (knee injury) for Sunday's game against San Francisco.

United States finishes second in first competitive practice

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The United States finished second to Cuba Friday in the first competitive practice track meet entered by Americans preparing for the 19th Olympics.

Esther Stroy, unlimbering her running legs after the women's track and field squad arrived here Thursday, couldn't match strikes with Auriel Penton as the Cuban girl hit the tape at the end of 400 meters in 53.5 seconds. Miss Stroy was timed in 53.9.

The victory was the second of the day for the Cuban contingent. The Cuban women's sprint team, anchored by Miguelina Combian, tied the world record of 43.6 seconds first set by Poland in Tokyo four years ago and tied by Russia last week.

The peaceful setting of the first full-scale women's meet on the tartan practice oval was marred by the news that a sniper had shot and killed a person about noontime in the same area where Wednesday night's disturbances resulted in the death of 29 people.

Miss Stroy was the only American entered in the day's action. The other members of the U.S. women's team spent the day getting fitted for track shoes and practicing wind sprints around their Olympic high rising apartment complexes.

Russia finished second in the women's spring but was disqualified for a bad baton pass during the third leg of the race. Australia was elevated to second position with a 43.8 clocking. The Soviets had been timed in 43.7.

Cash found cure 'by accident'

DETROIT (UPI)—Norm Cash discovered "by accident" how to turn a .200 hitter into a .350 slugger.

The Detroit Tigers first baseman switched his stance so he could look at the ball with two eyes.

Cash, after winning the American League batting championship in 1961 with an average of .361, went into a prolonged slump. Not until this July did he learn the cure.

"I opened my stance," he said. "I remember the game, at Baltimore against John O'Donoghue, and I went four for five. I was seeing the ball with two eyes."

"Then I remembered that that was what I was doing in 1961 and had forgotten about it. It was just an accident that I found it out. I'd tried everything. Looked at films, stood closer to the plate, away from it, up in the box, back in the box. Everything."

The change revitalized him.

"Somebody figured out that on July 1 was hitting .202 or something like that and since then I've hit .310. Since I changed the stance I've hit about .340."

Cash has become a spray hitter, too. "I quit trying to pull Cash has become a spray hitter, too. "I quit trying to pull ball," he said, "and now I'm hitting up the middle and into left field. And the home runs still come, too."

Cash tried his new stance in the World series against Bob Gibson, striking out three times, and against Nelson Briles and Steve Carlton, when he got a home run and two singles.

"I just adjusted to Briles," he said. "I was staying too far back the first time at bat and grounded out. I didn't get the ball good. The second time I watched his arm and started a little quicker and the ball went out."

"I'm going to adjust against Gibson, too."

That might be the cure for Cash against the overpowering St. Louis Cardinals right hander. Regardless of how he fares in his next series appearance, if he remembers that open stance, it might be "hold that Tiger" again in 1969.

Home field edge makes Tigers 11-10 choice

DETROIT (UPI)—Earl Wilson, a good hitting pitcher who claims he isn't, gives the explosive Detroit Tigers another home run threat today when they return to their own backyard to play the first World Series game in Tiger Stadium in 23 years.

The park —named Briggs Stadium when the Tigers beat the Chicago Cubs in 1945, their last World Series—will be the site of the pivotal third game with the St. Louis Cardinals. Each team has won once.

The game, starting at 1 p.m. EDT, will be played in what the weatherman calls "mostly sunny" conditions under a high temperature of 62.

The Tigers, who flashed regular season power when they clubbed three homers and 13 hits to batter the Cards 8-1 in the second game in spacious Busch Memorial Stadium in St. Louis Thursday, are looking forward to playing in their home park. They will be aiming for the 365-foot left centerfield "power alley" and its 370-foot "alley" in right.

With Wilson, who slugged seven homers during the regular season to boast his career total to 33, the Tigers will sent up nine hitters who are also capable of reaching the fences against Cardinal starter Ray Washburn, who pitched a no-hitter last month against the San Francisco Giants.

One of the reasons manager Mayo Smith waited to use Wilson until the third game was to give him a shot at the Tiger Stadium fences, even though Wilson claims he's not that good a hitter.

"People get the wrong impression just because I swing hard and get a couple homers," Wilson said, "I'm not a good hitter." But Wilson, with a .227 average this year and 17 RBIs, was the only Tiger pitcher with an average above .185.

The home field edge, where Detroit posted a 56-25 mark compared to 47-34 on the road, is one of the reasons why the Tigers are 11-10 favorites to win the third game, even though the Cards are still 13-10 favorites to win the series.

The fourth and fifth games will be played in Detroit Sunday and Monday and the sixth and seventh games, if necessary, in St. Louis next Wednesday and Thursday.

"Our ball club is built for our park," Smith said. "We go for the long ball and try to stay away from the bunt."

Cardinal manager Red Schoendienst played down the difference that the park will make. "If I was scared of this park, I would have stayed home," he smiled. "If you hit a ball well, it'll go out of any stadium."

Washburn, a one-time speedballer who had to start relying on the curve and finesse after he hurt his arm in 1963, also minimizes the danger of pitching to the Tigers in their own park.

"This park is bigger than people give it credit for being," he said. "Remember, it's 440 feet to centerfield and if you can get those sluggers to hit it straightaway, you're not in much trouble."

Washburn's fate is expected to be a key in the series, since the Cards need another winning pitcher besides Bob Gibson. Last year, Gibson won three Series games from the Boston Red Sox and Nelson Briles took the fourth decision.

But Briles was outpitched by Mickey Lolich Thursday and doesn't figure to be a good bet to win one in this series. If Washburn, who didn't start last year against the Red Sox, can't win either, the Cards are in trouble. The Tigers could win it all by beating Briles and Washburn twice, even if Gibson outduels Denny McLain again in their fourth game rematch Sunday.

However, if Washburn gives the Cards a 2-1 lead today with Gibson coming back Sunday, the Cards will become overwhelming favorites to win the world title for the third time in the last five seasons.

Both managers will go back to their opening game lineups they used Wednesday.

Leftfielder Willie Horton, who complained after being lifted in the seventh inning of Thursday's game, had a closed-door talk with Smith after a workout Friday. "Everything's okay," he said after the meeting.

While St. Louis, which has hosted the series three times since 1964, was rather blasé about the series, the entire city of Detroit is excited about the Tigers. There are "sook it to 'em, Tigers" and "this is Tigerland" signs displayed all over town.

Tiger manager Mayo Smith finds joy in being back in Tiger Stadium for a series of three games against the St. Louis Cardinals. The series between the teams stands at 1-1. Third game will be played today. (UPI Telephoto)

Ironing and liking it

A research outfit recently queried housewives on the jobs they hated the most. Leading the list were: (3) tending a cat with diarrhea (2) waxing the septic tank and (1) ironing.

This surprised no one. Ironing lies somewhere between licking stamps on Christmas cards and folding diapers. It is dull, boring, tedious, and drives more women to cashing in a dime store than anything I can think of.

Today then, in the interest of public service, we are going to deal with some of the ways ironing can become more interesting. These are suggestions which have been sent to me by my readers. Some regard the problem quite simply.

1. Send it out.

2. Let it stay in and YOU go out.

3. Fill your steam iron with liquid refreshment and cheat a little.

4. Don't wash.

Others employ the reward system. Everytime they iron a pillowcase, they get a coffee break. This method is discouraged for expectant mothers or those with weak kidneys.

Many women subscribe to the "Cool it, baby" theory. As soon as the laundry comes out of the dryer, they dampen it and stack it in the refrigerator. They have no intention of ironing it — ever. The best thing that could possibly happen is that someone mistakes a mound of it for a left-over that has become rebellious and tosses it out in the garbage.

Others take their clothes off the line, wet them down, jam it in a laundry basket and think midway.

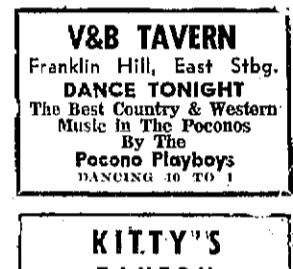

Another popular method is the Perennial Iron-in or The Sun Never Sets on a solid ironing board. These are the furtive little creatures who run around in the kitchen in their slips ironing items only as the need arises.

Most women, however, seem to favor the Suffer, but only if distracted route. They prop their boards up before the television sets, rationalizing that watching all that misery on the soap operas makes ironing seem like a romp through Disneyland. One woman even asked her neighbor to plan her "affair" around ironing days.

I personally like the rather sadistic suggestion of a woman who ironed cold turkey—no distractions, no rewards, no nothing. She got her kicks by crushing buttons, heavily starching her husband's shorts and putting kick pleats in her daughter's bras.

So, hang in there, ladies, and keep those postcards and letters coming.

Classic one-story ranch would have delighted Greeks

By ANDY LANG

The ancient Greeks, who cherished the beauty of form arising from balanced proportions, would have found much to admire in the classic design of this four-bedroom, one-story house.

With a completely symmetrical exterior, it has an attractive facade calculated to suggest grand living. There is no fiddling on the inside. Everything has been created by architect Herman H. York for the family that wants touches of luxury in its everyday life.

Of course, it's the kind of house that requires a good-sized lot, since the frontage is more than 80 feet. And, with a habitable area of more than 2,600 square feet, its construction costs will place quite a strain on a tight budget.

At the center of the floor plan, a sunken living room commands the attention of this area. On two sides of this room, wood columns and decorative screens form a divider between the entrance foyer and gallery.

Furthermore, the living room opens a view from the foyer through to the rear garden, providing an excellent first impression on entering the house.

The kitchen is strategically located between the dining room on one side and the family room and terrace on the other, thus making it convenient for either formal or informal dining.

Combined with the kitchen is a dinette, from which sliding glass doors lead to the terrace. And next to that is a laundry room, large enough to accommodate an ironing board and a sewing machine.

Besides space for a washer and dryer, there is a laundry tub, not too often seen in this type of room when it is located in a one-story house. A sizable bathroom, with a corner stall shower, is between the laundry room and terrace.

All this is accessible from both the terrace and the two-car garage, making it an ideal clean-up area, before entering the main part of the house.

A fireplace is found in the family room, insuring greater use than if it were in the living room, where it sometimes becomes a focal point of interior design without being utilized very often. Sliding glass doors on opposite walls of the family room lead to the terrace and the garden.

Note, too, that the family room, while completely in the rear, can be reached from the front of the house without passing through any other

Z-61 STATISTICS

Design Z-61 has a living room, dining room, kitchen, dinette, four bedrooms, three baths, laundry room and extra spacious foyer, with a total habitable area of 2,630 square feet. There is a large family terrace at the left rear of the house, a small private one at the right rear, plus a sizable garden area. A long portico is at the front. Overall dimensions, including a two-car garage, both terraces and the garden, are 80 feet, four inches by 53 feet, eight inches.

QUESTION: Is it practical to install a cedar closet in the basement? I have been told that basement is not a good place for it because it is too damp there. My basement does not appear to be damp and I have never had any trouble with water there. What is your advice? And what suggestions do you have for building it?

ANSWER: No reason for you not to build a cedar closet in your basement under the conditions you have described. But you must build it properly to be sure that it becomes an effective moth-repellent storage facility. No special carpentry skill is needed, since it involves only a frame of 2 by 4 lumber, with the addition of walls and doors. Once the frame has been constructed, attach 3/4-inch exterior plywood to the floor, side, back and ceiling. Install a 2 by 4 at each side of the closet front to serve as supports for two doors, which can be of the inexpensive hollow-core type.

From there on, it is merely a matter of lining the closet with a moth-repellent material such as aromatic red cedar. The cedar pieces can be of random length, installed horizontally for a pleasing effect. Remember that the ceiling and floor must be covered with the cedar as well as the walls and the inside of the doors. Since hollow-core doors are very thin, apply the cedar to them with an adhesive, plus nails along the thicker edges and ends. Add shelving, a clothes rod and catches to keep the doors closed. The closet can be made airtight by placing strips around the doors. Most important of all, remember that, while the exterior of the closet can be finished as desired, do not apply any finish to the cedar, as this would destroy its mothproofing qualities.

Q: We have just had new wood trim installed in two rooms of our house. The man who put it in applied stain to it, as we had asked him to do, but now we have decided we want to varnish it. How many coats are needed?

ANSWER: You can get Andy Lang's helpful booklet, "Paint Your House Inside and Out," by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P. O. Box 477, Huntington, N. Y. 11743.
